Literary Rights

Literary rights were not granted to Wichita State University. When permission is granted to examine manuscripts, it is not an authorization to publish them. Manuscripts cannot be used for publication without regard for common law literary rights, copyright laws and the laws of libel. It is the responsibility of the researcher and his/her publisher to obtain permission to publish. Scholars and students who eventually plan to have their work published are urged to make inquiry regarding overall restrictions on publication before initial research.

Restrictions

Only Dr. Merrill's writings, his research notes, or government documents included in the collection may be photocopied.

Content Note

This collection consists of photocopied letters written by William Lloyd Garrison from various other repositories. These letters were collected and used by Walter Merrill during his research for the book, No Union With Slave-Holders: The Letters of William Lloyd Garrison, 1841-1849, Volume III. In addition to the letters, this collection contains Dr. Merrill's research notes related to research on individual letters. The letters with notes also extend beyond the period of the book as they date from 1831-1879. For the most part, the letters are arranged chronologically and in most cases include a photocopy of the original letter, a typed transcription and the research notes. All letters include a note which identifies the repository holding the original letter. The guide lists the recipients of the letters in each folder. In addition to research materials, there are also some drafts and indexes for the volume.
